—Mr. Miles Hanchett, of Colorado has a century plant in bloom. The plant is small, but the stalk bearing the bloom is as large as a man's forearm and about twelve feet long. The bloom is a large white one.

—Chas. Carrick, wanted in Waco for the killing of a man in a duel in 1875, named J. M. Turner, is now a prominent citizen of Tennessee and the Governor of that state refuses to honor the requisition for him.

—Walter Welsh, a seventeen year old young man employed in the job department of the Evening Tribune at Galveston, got his arm caught in the cogs of a job press and mangled so that amputation near the shoulder was necessary.

—B. C. Altman stole a check from M. L. Rubenstein at Aransas Harbor recently and succeeded in getting it cashed before jumping the town. The authorities are after him and if he is caught will probably serve a term in the penitentiary.

—Joe Copeland and Wm. Hadden, two well known sports, of Paris, fell out recently, had a rough and tumble fight, Hadden getting the worst of it. They were separated. They met soon afterwards and exchanged shots, but without effect.

—Floyd Gardner and Jim Trent, the colored men in jail at Cotulla, in connection with the recent battle at Encinal, resulting in the death of three men and the wounding of two more, and following hard upon the Allen-Bowen affair, is creating considerable excitement. Conservative settlers are talking about selling out and leaving that section.

—Mr. Geo. England tells how the difficulty between himself and Mr. De Forest came about. He says my wife accepted the position as soprano in the choir voluntarily, and without remuneration, to fill a vacancy, but as matters were becoming unpleasant, Mrs. England, at my request, and her own desire, left the quartette, informing the rector and the leader of the choir of her intention, giving a week's notice, and without any motive of disrespect to the church. Shortly afterwards, through the courtesy and kindness of other denominations, Mrs. England was invited to take part in their services, and from that time has been continually annoyed by a series of free speeches made by the rector of St. Andrew's church. For instance, at a church gathering held at the vicarage, Mr. De Forest remarked that "he hoped all the ladies in his congregation would turn a cold shoulder to Mrs. England." After this reached my wife's ears it was evident that to still remain a member of St. Andrew's church would be impossible, and after due consideration Mrs. England wrote Mr. De Forest a formal note, pointing out the disrespect in which she would be held through his unchristian remarks, and asking to have her letter from her previous parish restored. The letter referred to a previous issue refusing the request of Mrs. England, and which brought about the difficulty, sets forth that she had mistreated the rector and congregation, accuses her of impertinence and irreverence and repeats the remark that every lady of the congregation should turn a cold shoulder to Mrs. England. Mr. England closes with the intimation that he was not the only man that got hurt in the fight, which this reply to his wife brought about.

They are nervous, irritable, changeable, easily get the blues and "make the spirits down to keep the spirits up," this wasting money, time, opportunity and nerve force.
